

SCRAP OVER BRYAN IN JERSEY

NEWARK AND JERSEY CITY BOTH WANTED HIM FIRST.

Senator Smith Outwits Bob Davis, Boss of Hudson County, and Essex Wins the Day—Orator Ridicules the Idea That He Is Rich—Speech Stirrs Up Enthusiasm.

Fresh from the ruffled calm of New Haven and with the decorous cheers of the citizens of that town yet in his ears, W. J. Bryan plunged yesterday into the turmoil of bloody war between rival camps of the Democrats over on the Jersey shore. Through intestine warfare in Newark and in the midst of a deadly exhibition of rivalry in Jersey City he passed unscathed.

Until yesterday morning the Davises of Hudson county thought that in Jersey City the voice of Mr. Bryan would be first heard on Jersey soil. The Smithites of Essex county had tried to get him to descend upon Newark first and had, in popular belief, failed. All plans had been laid by the cohorts of Leader Bob Davis to monopolize Mr. Bryan from dawn to dewy eve, but yesterday morning ex-Senator Jim Smith of the Victoria Hotel and there gained the promise of the Nebraska to give his city two hours, but it was stipulated that there must be no parade, no band concert and no reception there.

No it was that at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Senator escorted his charge, assisted by some two score other Democratic gentlemen, from the rooms of the Democratic Club in Fifth avenue, across the ferry, through Jersey City and out to Newark. Newark was mightily pleased with itself and made no bones about demonstrating that fact by methods that were visible to the naked eye. All Newark was pleased save only one man, that one the mortician and candidate for Mayor on the independent ticket, Joshua Brierley.

Mortuarian Brierley is in sympathy with Senator Smith and the Senator in his turn is opposing Brierley's candidacy quite vigorously. Hence it came to pass that yesterday when Senator Jim's triumph over Jersey City and Bob Davis was at its apogee Brierley dropped a fly into the ointment.

Even while the triumphal procession was marching from the station up town, once around Military Park and to the grand stand, the mortuarian was busy sending transcriptions about the streets on wagons upon which were depicted cartoons showing Senator Smith in an unfavorable light and annotated with legends reflecting on his character. One foot pictured him as a buxard.

Mr. Bryan had been apprised of the ill feeling that existed between Mr. Smith and Mr. Brierley by the former gentleman while they were coming over on the boat, so he was quite in a position to appreciate the words of art exhibited on the highways.

A crush of 10,000 enthusiastic citizens lined the park, in the centre of which the speaker's stand had been erected. When the throng caught sight of Bryan on the stand his enthusiasm was at its height.

For fully five minutes he stood with bared head waiting the end of the demonstration. Grand Marshal Robert A. Hagerty came to his aid.

"Citizens of Newark," began Mr. Bryan, "I remember that Hudson county gave me 10,000 majority in 1900 and I am glad to be here. [And we'll do it again.] I found that there was some fear of my coming here for such a fact might be construed as influencing local politics."

"But I want to tell you that I reserve the right to go wherever I want to in this country. Have your local fight. I like to see a good Democrat who wants to fight. [Rah for Brierley!] I don't object to Democratic fights. [Rah for Brierley!]" "Put him out!" ["Boke him!"] I want to say that my accepting Mr. Smith's invitation to come here this afternoon must not be construed as favoring one side in any controversy. [Loud and prolonged cheers.]

"Mr. Smith told me that if I came here I would help to elect a Democratic Senator to succeed Senator Dryden and would help to elect two Democratic Congressmen. Though I had not thought that I would have the time, I can always find time to do anything like that."

Mr. Bryan then proceeded to give his speech. He had just come to the clause: "Ten years ago the Republicans beat the Democrats by an overwhelming majority," when a citizen who had been looking upon the beer when it was foamy, roared, "We would do it again, too, by heck!" Instantly three policemen were on his neck, bearing him to the ground.

"Policemen, leave that man alone," shouted Mr. Bryan. "He's just the fellow I'm talking to." Prolonged cheers greeted this remark. Mr. Bryan resumed and had just gotten under way when a chorus of voices from the rear of the speaker's stand summoned him to come over there. He went.

Then they started a fight in the front of the stand. A policeman had his helmet knocked over his eyes and somebody hit him with a banana skin. "Come back here, Bill," was the imperious order from the front of the stand. Mr. Bryan came.

"Mr. Roosevelt has not one atom of popularity except that which he gets from violating the tenets of the Republican party. [Cheers.] Now I want to tell you something. Why is it that since the Republicans have been absolutely in power for ten years and have had absolute control of the machinery of Government for all that time—why is it that when the Republicans are telling us that the country was never more prosperous; why is it that when we have had the best crops in the world—why is it that when we have had the largest stock market in the world—why is it that when the speaker continued: "Some of my enemies say I am rich, that I belong to the moneyed classes. I have a long string of clippings of news showing how much money I've got. Well, gentlemen, I give those clippings to my wife and she goes down to the store and gets credit on them."

"The Republican party has amended the commandment to read 'Thou shalt not steal on a small scale.'" Mr. Bryan's speech was productive of much enthusiasm.

CEAR DROPS GEN. TREPPOFF.

Puts Hated Governor on Retired List "Because of Ill Health."

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—The Czar has placed Gen. Dmitri Treppoff on the retired list. The order to this effect also includes his vacating the position of Governor of Peterhof Palace.

This is the most significant step that has been taken by the Czar throughout the crisis. It was decided on this morning, when the Emperor, after expressing sympathy with Gen. Treppoff because of his continued ill health, which is perfectly genuine and is in the nature of angina pectoris, told him to cease all work and take a long rest. He thanked him heartily for his fidelity.

The removal of Gen. Treppoff from the personal councils of the palace leaves Premier Stolypin with a freer hand, but it does not necessarily mean a more liberal direction of policy, as it is now recognized that the régime is fighting for its existence. It is known that the Czar has been greatly disturbed recently because of the insecurity near Peterhof, which culminated in the assassination of Gen. Mien.

Gen. Treppoff is called by the Revolutionists the "iron fist," and as Chief of Police of Moscow and Governor-General of St. Petersburg he won hatred but some respect. In the same lines for his firmness in suppressing disorder as Governor of Peterhof Palace he has been closest of all officials to the Czar. Several attempts have been made to kill him. His recent illness was reported to be due to poison. The story received some credit after the dismissal of several of his servants.

OFFEN CURES LEPROUS CASES.

Use of Chaulmoogra Oil is Now Strongly Recommended.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 1.—The statement of Dr. Despres in Deutsche Coloniale that leprosy is curable has attracted general attention in specialist circles. Dr. Despres believes that leprosy is contagious and thinks that protection against it is more and more urgently needed. He considers that the use of pure chaulmoogra oil, if it is not a specific remedy, has at least proved a means of curing leprosy in a great number of cases.

Dr. Despres of the Hospital St. Louis has testified that the persevering use of sufficient doses of this oil always gives favorable results. Prof. Vanthrin of the Ecole du vu de Grace of Paris says he cures from 100 to 150 drops of the oil after meals and notes an improvement after three months' treatment. Dr. Leclerc, who is attached to the leper colony on the Island of Reunion, regards the oil as a specific in the early period of the malady. Dr. Despres quotes a large number of other cases of cure by this oil. Puffery, however, is a sine qua non. The oil can be drunk or applied by cutaneous injection. An improvement commences after fifteen to twenty days and the patients recover their appetites and sensibilities, put on flesh and digest food better. After a year or two the cure is complete.

BLOODHOUNDS FIND LOST BOY.

He Had Spent a Night and Part of a Day Wandering About a Swamp.

UTICA, Sept. 1.—The four-year-old son of John Dowd of Sanderford wandered away from his mother at 4 P. M. yesterday while she was at work in George Allen's boy yard at that place, and although searching parties scoured the country for miles around last night and to-day no trace of the missing boy was discovered until to-night at 10 o'clock, when bloodhounds came upon the child in Nine Mile Swamp, several miles from the spot where his mother last saw him. The boy was found seated on a log weeping and greatly weakened from lack of food and his exertions, but otherwise none the worse for his experience.

The child had wandered about in the swamp all last night and most of to-day seeking a path that would lead him back to his home. His parents had concluded that he was drowned, but others thought he had been kidnapped. Former Assistant Secretary of War William Cary Sanger, who is at his summer home in Sangerfield, heard of the boy's disappearance to-day and immediately telegraphed to Greece, N. Y., for a pair of bloodhounds. The dogs were given the scent at 5 o'clock this afternoon and two hours later came upon the missing boy.

RUBBERNECK WAGON ABLAZE.

Sixteen Frightened Sightseers See Something More Than They Paid For.

A seeing New York auto belonging to the Massachusetts Company of 124 Broadway was badly damaged by fire yesterday. It carried sixteen passengers, most of them women, and it was making a trip down town. While the machine was passing the Marlborough Hotel there was a sharp explosion, followed by a cloud of smoke, from the machinery underneath the body of the vehicle.

The passengers were badly scared, but instead of helping them to alight the driver, T. O'Dwyer, jumped down and tried to put out the fire. Policemen Gorman sent in an alarm and then, with the aid of Policeman Gallagher, he helped the tourists from their high seats. In the meantime a great crowd had gathered and the electric cars were blocked ten minutes. The firemen put out the blaze. The machine was put out of commission.

NEW SUBMARINE LAUNCHED.

The Holland Boat Cuttlefish Takes the Water at Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—The new submarine torpedo boat Cuttlefish, which is one of the four Holland boats now being built by the Electric Boat Company for the Government at Groton, was launched this morning.

Miss Eleanor Gow, daughter of Commander John L. Gow, United States Navy, and sponsor of the new boat, christened the boat with the name of Cuttlefish.

The dimensions and particulars of the Cuttlefish are held as confidential by the Navy Department, but it is known that it is to be larger and faster than the Holland boats now owned by the Government.

Receipts From Stock Transfer Law. ALBANY, Sept. 1.—The receipts from the stock transfer law for August were unusually large, due to the active market last month. The total amount turned into the State treasury was $765,000. While this is not a record breaker, it is very large for this time of the year.

DIRECTORS SHARED THE LOOT

ARRESTS NEAR IN PHILADELPHIA TRUST CO. CRASH.

District Attorney Not Ready to Say How Many Are Implicated—Rumor That Hipple Is Not Dead but in Europe—Depositor Tries to Shoot a Director.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—After an all day grilling of directors and officials of the wrecked Real Estate Trust Company, before Receiver Earle, a session that lasted until 9 o'clock to-night, District Attorney John C. Bell announced that he had entered actively into the investigation, had become convinced that there was serious criminality in the looting of the bank and that he had evidence enough from the hearing to-day to justify the arrest at once of three persons, two of them officials of the trust company and the third a bank examiner.

Three at least of the directors are in a perilous position so far as reputation and liberty are concerned and two directors, Joseph De Forest Junkin and ex-Judge W. W. Porter, collapsed at the end of the investigation to-night.

The vigorous probing by the receiver began after his discovery that not only the deposits but the trust funds had been tampered with to the extent of $100,000 and upward, and he confessed that the "upward" might mean anything.

While the receiver was giving the third degree to officials and directors a depositor shot at a man he supposed to be a director and escaped by his criminal methods.

William F. North, the treasurer of the trust company, who knew of the bogus list of securities the president presented to the directors and through whose hands all the illegal loans passed, was a fruitful witness, as was Theodore Prosser, the company's real estate officer, who must have been called upon to approve the gigantic mortgages on the properties offered by Segal.

Most sensational of all the admissions was that of Joseph De F. Junkin, an attorney and a director of the wrecked company, that the Arlington Brook Real Estate Company of New York, owning property near Baltimore, had borrowed $250,000 from the Real Estate Trust Company, and that Directors Junkin, R. Dak and Charles E. Henry and Edward P. Borden and President Hipple, in consideration of 50 per cent, of the amount of the loan, to be paid to them in full-paid stock of the Arlingtonbrook company, guaranteed to make good the bonds if the loan was not paid.

At the time of this transaction was president of the Arlingtonbrook company, as well as solicitor and director of the Real Estate Trust Company.

In other words, these men, as directors, used the trust company's money for Director Junkin's own venture. After a time the Arlingtonbrook company was foreclosed. The Real Estate Trust Company was compelled to buy it because the five directors who had undertaken the venture failed to make their guarantee good.

Mr. Junkin, in explanation of this transaction, said it was not unusual in banking institutions, and that the directors of the Real Estate Trust Company had made a practice of borrowing the company's money to advance their own enterprises.

"The whole thing seems of criminality," said District Attorney Bell, as he emerged from the trust company's building in company with Receiver Earle shortly after 9 o'clock to-night. "Just what action I will take I cannot say, for the matter has passed to the point where each development will figure as evidence."

"I cannot even tell," said the District Attorney. "But it takes more than one to make a conspiracy."

The discovery that President Hipple had taken money from the trust funds entrusted to the institution destroyed the last remnant of faith which several of the directors still held in Hipple.

J. Hector McNeal, a prominent lawyer, was before the receiver. He said it was a note for $100,000 held by him that drove Hipple to suicide. It was due the day after the suicide.

Prompted by the discoveries he has made, Receiver Earle has asked Attorney John G. Johnson to give an opinion as to the responsibility for the failure of the bank.

John F. Betz, a wealthy brewer and capitalist, is the first of the directors of the Real Estate Trust Company to offer to make good the losses of depositors. He said:

"I am game enough to make good whatever the directors are called upon for. I am personally willing to go as far as any of the other directors and will contribute my full proportion."

Mr. Betz frankly admitted that he knew little or nothing of the Real Estate Trust Company's affairs, that he "attended as many board meetings as I had time to attend," and that he supposed the other directors knew more of the bank's affairs.

John L. Borch of the optical firm of Borch & Co. threatens criminal proceedings against the Real Estate Trust Company directors for what he charges is the illegal withholding of his deposit.

Mr. Borch declared that on Tuesday morning last he deposited $5,000 in his account. This was at 11 o'clock, not more than three hours before the announcement of the concern's failure.

Search on the Yacht Chafante. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 1.—Thirty passengers, half of whom were women, were thrown into a panic this afternoon when the sloop yacht Chafante struck on the inlet bar and careened until the sea washed over her deck. Government life savers, who saw the plight of the vessel, put out the alarm and brought the yacht to the pier at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street, this city, and removed them to Bellevue.

SMASHUP AT LOOP.

Passenger Follows Rear End Collision on Elevated at Coenties Slip.

Passengers were hurled from their seats and thrown into panic yesterday afternoon by a rear end collision between an elevated train at Coenties Slip. Although two hurly calls were sent in for ambulances and one for a fire truck, no one was seriously injured. The track was blocked about twenty minutes.

A second avenue train, in charge of Motor-man J. H. Miller, came around the loop in Coenties Slip and a Third Avenue train was waiting to pull into the South Ferry station. Miller miscalculated his distance and was compelled to resort to his emergency brake. But this failed to stop his train and it crashed into the rear car of the waiting train.

The passengers on both were thrown about like dice in a box. Roundsmen Bryan and Policeman Hauser of the Old Slip station were on corner under the tracks when the crash came. They sent in hurly calls for ambulances to Hudson street and St. Gregory's hospital, as well as a call for Truck 15, in Old Slip. They then mounted a fire escape on the building at Front street and crossed to the elevated tracks.

Women and children were screaming and trying to force the car gates, and it was some time before the riot policemen, assisted by the train guards, could allay their fears. Many were finally guided along the structure to the South Ferry station.

When the truck company arrived a ladder was run up and Dr. Bryan of Hudson street hospital went up and assisted several who were suffering from shock and bruises. He also advised two women who had sustained injuries. Dr. Bryan, 28 years old, of 30 Wales avenue, Jersey City, and Monica Nash, 35 of 82 Second street, Brooklyn, were thrown over seats and received severe bruises, but went to their homes after Dr. Bryant had attended them.

Capt. James E. Dillon and the reserves of the Old Slip station arrived a few minutes after the collision and guarded the third rail, keeping passengers away from it while they were walking to the South Ferry terminal. The platforms of the two cars which came together were smashed. Traffic was resumed within twenty minutes.

WILL SELL STANFORD JEWELS.

University Trustees Decide to Turn $1,000,000 Worth of Gems Into Cash.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The famous collection of precious stones and jewelry, the property of the late Mrs. James Stanford, and valued at $1,000,000 will be sold by the trustees of Stanford University as soon as possible.

This action was decided upon at a meeting of the trustees yesterday. Part of the collection will be disposed of at private sale, many offers from leading Eastern jewelers being already on file. Those unsold will be sold by auction in New York and London.

These jewels were gifts from the late Senator Stanford to his wife and comprise some of the largest and finest diamonds in existence. Some of the rubies in the collection are said to be the most valuable in the world. The emeralds and pearls also have been for many years the envy and admiration of lovers of precious stones.

BAGGAGE BURSTS INTO FLAME.

Suspicious Manseer on the Finland Hurled Through Overboard.

There was much excitement on the Red Star Line pier yesterday afternoon just before the steamship Finland sailed for Antwerp when a piece of baggage that was being hoisted over the side suddenly burst into flames.

It was a large hamper, but whose it was or that it contained was never known. For a moment the side after men on the vessel's deck and on the pier had tried vainly to put out the fire.

The basket was about half way from the pier when it hit the side of the Finland and when it was let down on the ship's deck it was seen that smoke was arising from it. The men on deck endeavored to learn where the smoke came from, but could not find it. The officer ordered the basket lowered to the pier.

THIEF CHASE BY WOMAN.

Mrs. Littlejohn Runs Stoleth Grabber Into Detectives' Arms.

Mrs. M. E. Littlejohn, who is living at Thayer's Cottage, Sea Gate, and Mrs. H. E. Hiestand, the wife of a physician in Kenton, Ohio, appeared at Police Headquarters last evening to make complaint against William Fuller, a young man who stole Mrs. Hiestand's valise at the Grand Central Station. Fuller was arrested by Detectives Young and Leary, who caught him in the act of making away with the valise.

Mrs. Hiestand intended to take a train for the West and Mrs. Littlejohn had gone to the Grand Central Station with her. Hiestand went into a telephone booth, leaving her grip outside. The young man sauntered along and picked it up and started on the run for the Vanderbilt Avenue exit. Mrs. Littlejohn hurried after him in Vanderbuilt avenue and threw him into the arms of the two detectives.

"Police Headquarters Fuller said that he was a waiter. The police say he is an ex-convict, only lately out of jail. They say he is a German and has been in this country five years, about three of which he has spent in prison. According to the police, he was shut up for turning a trick similar to the one which he tried to pull off yesterday."

Mrs. Littlejohn is said to be related to Bishop Littlejohn of Long Island. She will appear against the man.

HURT ABOARD HIS YACHT.

Dr. James E. Kelly Brought From His Long Island Home for Treatment at Bellevue.

Dr. James E. Kelly, whose home and office in this city is at 117 East Fifty-ninth street, was brought to Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon and placed in the Sturgis Pavilion, the only exclusive ward in the hospital. Dr. Kelly is suffering from burns about the legs. He was injured on Tuesday by an explosion on his yacht off his summer home at Bayville, L. I.

Dr. Kelly was under treatment at his country place, but it was thought best to have him placed in a hospital. He was put aboard his yacht and brought to the pier at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street, this city, and removed them to Bellevue.

Dr. Kelly is a visiting physician to the Post Graduate and Bellevue Hospitals. At Bellevue he gave his best friend Borough President John F. Ahearn. The latter was sent for and hurried to Dr. Kelly's bedside, where he remained some time.

CUBAN REVOLT SPREADS FAR.

OUTBREAKS REPORTED NOW IN EVERY PROVINCE.

Santa Clara City Surrounded by 2,000 Rebels—Cienfuegos in Danger of Capture—Prising in Santiago Province Grows—Rebel Forces Are Increasing.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. HAVANA, Sept. 1.—There is war now in all the provinces. It has been ascertained without doubt that the rebel band that is operating near Maron, Puerto Principe province, is led by Garcia Canizares, former president of the House of Representatives.

The situation is growing more serious hourly. Santa Clara city is surrounded by 2,000 rebels, and Cienfuegos may be taken at any moment. Ex-Speaker of the House Canizares is in arms in Santa Clara, despite the Government denial of this statement. There are other large rebel forces in the same province and the movement is also spreading in Santiago.

The Government continues the work of enlisting, equipping and forwarding troops, but the rebel forces are growing more rapidly than those of the Government.

The official report given out of the defeat of the rebel forces under Col. Asbert is discounted by eyewitnesses of the fight and by Col. Asbert himself. All these agree that it was merely a detachment of Asbert's forces that was defeated by the rural guards. Asbert now has 1,200 men, well armed, mounted and fed.

Pino Guerra is advancing between the mountain range and the coast in order to come in between the Government forces and the capital.

Batista Hon, in the province of Pinar del Rio, near the American Coaling station, fell into the hands of a force of rebels led by Carillo and Representative Marqueti. After seizing horses and arms they withdrew without having done any damage to the property of foreigners. The rebels are strong in Santa Clara province.

Manager Cameron of the Cuban Central Railway has held a conference with insurgent leaders Guzman and Portela near Cienfuegos and an agreement was reached that passenger trains bearing the British flag would be respected if they were not carrying troops.

The town of Rancheola, in Santiago province, has been raided by insurgents, who took $1,700 from the safe of the treasury and derailed a train. They left after holding the town five hours.

Col. Avalos, who is in command of the Government forces that are operating in the province of Pinar del Rio, reports that he followed Pino Guerra for two days and that Guerra constantly refused to accept battle. Col. Avalos has 900 men and says Guerra's force does not exceed 500. He says that Guerra ever had over 1,000 men. He says the reporters purposely exaggerate the numbers of the rebel forces on behalf of the newspapers that favor the revolution. The bands around Guanaco hold the least possible communication with the town.

A letter from the insurgent leader, Pino Guerra, received in Havana, contains the following: "The revolutionists like not American intervention if the latter means the military occupation of the island and the establishment of an American administration here. We want our independence. The Americans would merely make us slaves. The kind of intervention we want is that the American Government recognize the elections as fraudulent and send a note to President Palma requesting him to call new elections and show fair play. We are fighting against tyranny. If the Americans come to deprive us of our independence we will fight also against them."

A manifesto has just been issued here, signed by the revolutionary committee in Havana. It says that President Palma has been violating the Constitution ever since he came into power. He deposed such Mayors of towns as were unfavorable to him, replaced them with his political friends and won the late election by fraud. The manifesto invites all men who are able to bear arms to the insurgents.

Gen. Montalvo, in an interview, says that the Cuban Junta in New York is composed of Government employees who were discharged by President Palma. Aguirre, he says, was an employee of the Department of Public Works first and afterward of the post office. He was finally discharged in the summer of 1905, and then joined the Liberal party. Nodarse was postmaster of Havana, and was discharged by a special decree of the President early in August. Now, says Montalvo, they attack the Government that they formerly defended for pay. But they are without authority.

FOR 3,000,000 CARTRIDGES.

Bush Order Received at the Frankford Arsenal, Presumably From Cuba.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—The serious outlook of the Cuban revolution is one of the topics given by a Government official to-day for a rush order for 3,000,000 Krag-Jorgensen cartridges received at the Frankford Arsenal.

The order specially stipulates that the cartridges must be made in the quickest possible time. According to one of the arsenal officials the order can be filled in five weeks. The arsenal has a force of about 1,700 on the Krag-Jorgensen cartridges and can put out 100,000 a day.

At the present time there are none of this style of cartridge in stock, as the Government is using the 1903 model rifle. The Krag-Jorgensen is the model of 1898 and it is for this reason, it is said at the arsenal, that the ammunition will eventually be sent to Cuba, as this model gun is largely used there.

Two ill-buster vessels are reported to have left Philadelphia last night laden with volunteers for the insurgents.

Cuba Depletes Winchester Company's Stock of Arms.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 1.—It was said here to-night that the Winchester Repeating Arms Company would soon be running night and day to refill the storehouses with arms and ammunition which have become depleted on account of the Cuban insurrection.

From several sources it is reported that representatives of Cuba had been in this city buying arms.

HORSE THROWS BISHOP POTTER.

Who Then Rides Home in the Auto That Frightened Him.

UTICA, Sept. 1.—While out horseback riding near his summer home in Cooperstown on Thursday Bishop Potter was thrown from his saddle. He was somewhat bruised and shocked, but otherwise not injured.

President Riesco Gives Banquet in His Honor at the Capitol.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 1.—Secretary Root and his party reached the capital from Lota at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was met at the station by a deputation of officials and citizens and was afterward received by President Riesco. The President gave a banquet in honor of the Secretary to-night. The most prominent people in the capital were present.

WALSH QUITS DEMOCRACY.

Iowa National Committeeman Resigns—Says He Has Cut Party Lines.

ALL READING MIXES CLOSED.

Ten Days Shutdown Due to Over-supply of Coal in Dealers' Hands.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 1.—All mines of the Philadelphia and Reading and its subsidiary companies were shut down to-day, September 10.

The company officials say this is due to a hull in the coal trade, the dealers having large supplies on hand which were stored during the prevalence of low prices in the summer.

FORAKER FAVORS DIRECT VOTE.

Wants Party Primaries to Nominat Candidates for U. S. Senator.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Senator J. B. Foraker said to-day, regarding an intervention in which Congressmen Burton advocated the election of Senators by popular vote: "I am an advocate of the proposition that the Republicans at their primaries shall, by direct vote, nominate the man who is to be the candidate of their party for Senator. Illinois has provided for this by statute. Ohio should do the same thing. This is much better than amending the Constitution, because it answers the same purpose."

MAY END UP IN RULE, MAYOR SAYS.

Quoted as Saying in Paris That Tammany Delegation Will Split.

The Brooklyn Eagle printed yesterday the following despatch from Paris: "Just prior to his departure for New York to-day Mayor McClellan told a delegate reporter that he fully expects to head a delegation from Tammany Hall to the State convention at Buffalo. He expressed himself as believing that the time honored unit rule in Tammany would not, under existing circumstances, prevail at the convention. That Charles F. Murphy will also lead a delegation to Buffalo is the Mayor's conviction, but as to the comparative strength of the two delegations he would say nothing."

Mayor McClellan's closest friends here declare that it is highly probable that the Mayor himself will take the floor at the convention to nominate District Attorney Jerome for Governor. The Mayor told the Eagle reporter that Jerome would certainly be his candidate unless something unforeseen should occur to change his mind."
